Flanking Siegfried Line

By JAMES M. LONG

LONDON, Sept. 20 (AP) — Massive forces of British Army and airborne troops straddled the Lower Rhine in Holland five miles from Germany today, in position for a great new invasion of the Reich around the upper end of the Siegfried line.

British Second Army armor threw a 50-mile long cut-off wall across Eastern Holland in 48 hours. It merged solidly with parachute-glider soldiers dropped near Nijmegen on the Waal (Rhine).

The British were apparently battling on to link with still other sky troops 10 miles farther north on the upper branch of the river.

The Siegfried Line was being outflanked. The path was opening for a wheeling offensive across the flatlands of Northern Germany. Nazis in southwestern Holland were menaced with entrapment.

Americans struck fierce German resistance in the invasion of Germany, and in their offensives from the Nancy-Metz line to the Belfort Gap farther south. But two doughboy columns had thrust 20 miles or more beyond Nancy toward Strasbourg.

With the big supply port of Brest on Brittany peninsula in U. S. hands, Canadians battled into the channel port of Boulogne. An unconfirmed Algiers broadcast said Boulogne's garrison already had surrendered.

Field Marshal Montgomery, in overall command of ground armies on the northern front, declared there was "no doubt" the war against Hitler would end this year, considerably. Heinrich Himmler

German resistance tightened was reported to have visited German units in Holland, urging "stiffest resistance." But two allied armies were steadily enlarging their stand, blocking most of the roads to Roterdam and Amsterdam. The Paris radio said even the Utrecht line — retreat had been cut by Allied landings from planes.

Berlin broadcasts acknowledged a retreat across the western Schelde.

Americans in the southeastern corner of Holland had crossed into Germany east of Sittard and Amstenrade 20 miles above Aachen, and east of Simpelveld seven miles above that ruined city.

Perhaps the greatest "steeling of Nazi resistance was along the West Wall defenses from well north of Aachen to Trier. The U. S First Army was on or across the Reich's frontier almost everywhere along an 80-mile front.

Yanks and Germans fought in the streets of Aachen. Some enemy troops held out in the factory district of by-passed Stolberg, six miles farther inside Germany. Americans were shelling Duren, 15 miles beyond Aachen and 20 from Cologne. Prum, eight miles inside Germany and 45 from Cologne, also being softened by U. S. shells.

On the Third Army front, Americans threw back German armored blows and advanced to the area of Dieuze and Baccarat, respectively 25 miles northeast and 29 southeast of Nancy.

There was no further official news of the American Seventh Army, fighting west and south of the Belfort gap.

WESTERN FRONT—Arrows locate Allied drives, including a union of the British Second Army with Allied airborne troops near Nijmegen in Holland . . . increasing the threat (broken arrow) to the German right flank. Yank First Army guns shelled German towns of (A) Duren and (B) Prum.

Red Tanks, Infantry Push Deep Into Riga Defenses

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Sept. 20 (AP)—A massive Baltic drive, first phase of a Russian supreme autumn offensive, rolled the Germans back steadily today over the Latvian front, imminently menacing Riga and threatening to bring its fall at any moment.

Front dispatches said advance tank and motorized infantry units had pushed deep into the city's defenses. The official communique announced an approach to within six miles as the Red Army edged in from three sides and brought artillery to bear.

In four days the Russian Baltic armies have captured nearly 3000 communities in their smashing attack, which promises to clear all Germans shortly from Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, and pave the way for the remaining steps of the autumn offensive, expected to be bigger than anything to date.

Developments may be expected from the Gulf of Finland to Yugoslavia.

Heaviest Russian attack in Latvia occurred southeast of Riga, with Gen. Bagramian's forces smashing forward 25 miles on a 75-mile front, sending the Germans reeling back into the Latvian capital. More than 2000 places fell in that area within four days.

Closest approach to Riga officially disclosed came with capture of Kekava, on the west bank of the Daugava river six miles south of the city.

On the Estonia-Latvia frontier Gen. Maslennikov's third Baltic army captured Valga, 60 miles east of the Gulf of Riga, in a drive that threatened to divide the German armies in Estonia from those to the south. Through Valga run five important railways.

In Romania, combined Romanian-Russian forces captured Timisoara, 20 miles from the Yugoslav border and 73 miles northeast of Belgrade.

FINLAND — Shaded areas represent territories Finland loses under terms of armistice with Great Britain and Russia. Old 1940 border is restored, and this gives Russia two sectors. In addition, Finland loses the (A) Petsamo area and leases to Russia the (B) Porkkala peninsula for 50 years.

German Cities Fired by Bombs

LONDON, Sept. 20 (INS)—Huge fires blazed today in the twin German cities of Rheydt and Munchen Gladbach, 25 miles northeast of advanced positions won by the American First Army, after concentrated night attacks by British Lancaster bombers.

(The German home radio said, according to the FCC, that "single, fast nuisance raiders" were over Bavaria in daylight.

Danish Riots Seen Quelled

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 20 (AP)—Street fighting and disorders which erupted in Denmark yesterday as Danes demonstrated against German seizure of government buildings and police stations were reported to have abated and advices from Copenhagen indicated that calm once more prevailed in the city.

Bombers Lash At Philippines

By Associated Press War Editor

Palau's two southernmost islands were reported virtually in American hands today as Mitchell medium bombers took up the task of knocking out Japanese defenses in the southern Philippines.

Only two isolated Japanese pockets on Angaur island remained to be cleaned up by infantrymen of the 81st Division at the southern tip of Palau. The southern portion and most of the eastern coast of rugged Peleliu has been conquered by First Division Marines, official announcements said.

(A later report from John Cooper, broadcasting over combined American networks, said all but the narrow northern end of the airport island had been taken.)

An attack force of about 200 United States bomber and fighter planes carried out a new "fierce" raid against Koror island in the central Palau Islands and 30 Liberators attacked Chichi island in the Bonin group, 600 miles south of Tokyo, the Tokyo radio reported.

Cannon-firing Mitchell bombers, presumably operating from new fields on recently captured Morotai, started large fires at Buayan airdrome on southern Mindanao. It was the first U. S. medium bomber raid on the Philippines.

Japanese indicated their fears of the U. S. air base 300 miles from the Philippines by making another night raid on Morotai. It was ineffective.

Yanks Threaten All Gothic Line

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

ROME, Sept. 20 (INS)—American Fifth Army troops have breached the Gothic line on a six-mile front north of Florence and are within three miles of Firenzuola, a road center.

American, British, Indian and Brazilian troops flanking the penetration in the line are making progress against strong opposition.

Pillboxes, gun emplacements and dug-in tank turrets on Appenine crests are being reduced by Allied combat teams.

BUDAPEST BOMBED

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (INS)—Budapest was bombed during the night by "Anglo-United States" aircraft, DNB reported today.

Finland Stripped by Soviet Peace Pact

BULLETIN

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 20 (AP)—Finland broke relations today with German puppet states Hungary, Croatia and Slovakia.

LONDON, Sept. 20 (AP)—Stripped of her richest industrial territory and burdened with heavy cash reparations as the price of peace, Finland was dedicated today by acting Prime Minister Ernest Von Born to "building up a new national existence with the opportunities left to us."

Of immediate concern was the probably bloody task of removing German troops remaining in the country—one of the conditions imposed in the 23-point armistice agreement reached in Moscow yesterday with Russia and Great Britain.

Stockholm reports which lacked immediate official confirmation said Finnish troops had moved against Nazi forces in northern Finland. Von Born said the south as far as Oulu already was clear. The Germans, if they desire, can withdraw into northern Norway.

The armistice agreement implied at least a certain amount of Allied assistance in case of prolonged German resistance. The pact requires that airfields in southern and southwestern Finland be placed temporarily at the disposal of the Allies.

The loss of territory to Russia was the sorest point to the Finns and the first item mentioned by Von Born in his broadcast review.

The armistice restores the 1940 border, gives Karelia and the Petsamo area to Russia, provides for a 50-year Soviet lease of the Porkkala peninsula with its naval base near Helsinki, and places the Finnish merchant fleet at the disposal of the Allies for the duration.

Finland must pay $300,000,000 reparations within six years.

Robots Strike Britain 3d Successive Night

LONDON, Sept. 20 (AP)—For the third night in succession the Germans struck at London and southern counties with flying bombs last night.

Although the attack was not heavy compared with previous robot assaults, considerable damage was done to homes in scattered areas. A fire watcher was among the fatalities.

Lake Sees Soldier's Life Saved by Blood Plasma

By AUSTEN LAKE

ON THE ROAD TO BERLIN (Delayed)—The two litter bearers carried their blanketed burden through the woods and laid it on the grassy floor of the battalion aid station. The lead-bearer stripped the covering back from a soldier's face, that looked as though carved from marble. The ridges of his nose and his closed eyelids were a violet blue as though smudged with carbon paper. "Pretty fah gone, ah guess," said the bearer in a soft southern burr, feeling the wounded man's wrist. "But he's still gotta l'il pulse."

Staff Sgt. Raymond A. McKenna of 240 Huntington ave., Providence, needed no diagnosis. His months in France had made him an expert in transfusions. So now he picked up two bottles with pliable rubber caps, one containing a dry substance that looked like small chunks of taffy, the other holding a crystal clear fluid. "Powdered blood plasma and distilled water," said the Sergeant, as though addressing a clinic.

Deftly he inserted the sharp ends of a short metal tube through both caps, watching the water seep into the powder until it had the consistency of orange juice. Then, he shook the plasma bottle vigorously until the granules dissolved, and hung it by adhesive straps on a shoulder-high peg.

He fastened a long rubber tube to the bottle's nose and thrust the hypo needle on the other end into the soldier's arm artery. The

1000 Mothers Back High School Strikers

EARLY ARRIVALS AT MASS MEETING OF WORCESTER STUDENTS TODAY
Elm Park Bandstand . . . Just Before Beginning of Protest Rally of 3000 Boys and Girls

By JAMES J. DELANEY

WORCESTER, Sept. 20—The old custom of bringing teacher a note from mother, explaining absence from school, was tipped upside down today when nearly 1000 striking high school students got their mothers to write notes supporting their walkout in protest against a lengthened school day.

The missives were waved high by the triumphant holders at a mass meeting of 2000 strikers in Elm Park, then boxed for presentation to the school committee.

Chief exhorter at the park meeting was Arthur Soteropolos, North High School student, who climbed to the handstand and shouted, "United we stand!"

The crowd chanted back, "Divided we fall!"

It had assembled at 8 a. m., in a downpour that failed to thin its ranks. Hundreds of the boys and girls carried lunches put up by their parent supporters.

By a unanimous voice vote they declared their intention to remain away from the city's four high schools until their 1 p. m. closing hour had been restored. The strike resulted from the action of School Supt. Thomas F. Power in changing it to 2 p. m.

Excerpts from the parental notes made it plain the indignation of hundreds of strikers is shared by their mothers. The sentiment ran:

"The 2 p. m. closing hour is ruinous to my daughter's health . . ."

"My son kills himself in defense work after school, without having time enough to eat at school."

"I did all right in getting an education under a 1 a. m. closing. Why the need for change?"

"My daughter doesn't have time to come home, eat and go to her war job after school. Her war job is necessary work."

At the Elm Park mass meeting it was indicated clergymen have become anxious over the strike, now in its third day.

The Rev. Richard Greely Preston, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church, made a sympathetic address to the students. He offered to call a special meeting of all the city's clergymen to bring about reconciliation between the strikers and school officials.

His audience was attentive and respectful but gave no signs of enthusiasm except for polite applause when he had finished.

The clergyman did not urge them to return to their desks.

"But the way this matter is being handled now," he declared, "no one is getting to first base."

He added he thought the mayor or city government should take action of some kind.

Several hundreds of students returned to their classes today in response to a radio appeal which Power and the four high school principals made to them and their parents last night.

But at the North High School they soon trooped out again and joined the demonstrators at Elm Park, who gave them an ovation. The newcomers said they had been "duped" in showing good faith toward a plan proposed by the school committee last night.

The committee asked them to return to school, hold assemblies, elect two representatives from each school and thus form a grievance committee which would be received by the school committee at a special session.

"It was the bunk," the North High School arrivals told the Elm Park stand-patters. They said they had asked Principal Everett G. Sherwin to hold an assembly but had been told the time was not ripe. Whereupon they got up and left.

A similar walkout at South High School was barely averted. Principal Samuel Beeber reportedly wanted more of the strikers to come back before allowing an assembly to be held. Pupils began streaming for the doors. Police stood there but made no move. The exodus slowed. One of the officers did some fast and persuasive talking and the crowd changed its mind.

The principal also changed his mind. He sanctioned an assembly which by voice vote elected Alfred Hogan and Ann Marie Shea, seniors, to represent the school on the proposed grievance committee.

At Elm Park the 2000 diehards flatly turned down the school committee plan for assembly elections in the schools.

Cheers rose for a young orator who waved his arms in the bandstand and declared:

"We are going to stay on strike until we get our 1 o'clock back. If they want to meet our representatives they'll take them the way we elect them, not the way they want to do it. We'll select our representatives here today. We

Dewey to Reveal Plans For Freedom, Security

By JACK BELL

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 20 (AP)—Apparently unruffled by two escapes from serious injury, Gov. Dewey prepared to board a refurnished campaign train today for San Francisco and a speech there tomorrow night outlining a Republican program of freedom and security for all.

Cheered lustily for his assertion here last night that there is no indispensable man, the GOP nominee promised to tell tomorrow's audience "the philosophy by which I believe we can achieve our two great goals for America, freedom and security for all."

A sympathetic throng here rose to its feet stamping the wooden floor underneath and yelling itself hoarse when he declared:

"Let's have no more pretense about indispensable men. There are no indispensable men.

"If our republic after 150 years of self-government is dependent upon the endless continuance of one man in office, then the hopes which animated the men who fought for the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution have indeed come to nothing.

"The peace we seek must not hang by the slender thread of personal acquaintance of any two or three men. The pages of history are littered with treaties proclaiming permanent peace made privately by rulers of nations and quickly broken.

"This cause is too important to be trusted to discredited methods or to be dependent upon the life span and continued friendship of two or three individuals."

The New York Governor's reference to two or three men apparently was to President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

Describing what he termed a long series of quarrels within the administration, Dewey declared: "I do not believe in that quarreling bickering kind of government. An administration which cannot unite its own house even in war can never unite the nations for the tremendous peace tasks ahead."

He accused the New Deal of seeking for 12 years to bring the Congress of the United States into disrepute.

"My opponent has demonstrated that he cannot work with the present Democratic Congress," he said. "How in the name of the future of our country can he be expected to get along with the Republic Congress which will certainly be elected this fall?"

TESTIFIES—Earl Browder is shown as he testified before the House Campaign Expenses Committee. He said some members of his dissolved Communist party are affiliated with the CIO Political Action Committee and also AFOL groups.

Can't Trust Deal, Says Bricker

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 20 (AP)—The New Deal cannot be trusted, Gov. Bricker said today, because its 12-year record is one of broken promises without parallel in American history.

The Republican candidate for Vice-President, speaking at the Pennsylvania capitol, said the faith of the people in the present national Administration had been so seriously impaired that:

"They have come to the conclusion that the surest way to plan for the future is to observe what the New Deal says it is going to do, or what it is not going to do, and then prepare to meet the opposite alternative."

The Ohio governor, in a prepared speech released by his campaign staff on an eastern tour, asserted the New Deal promised an abundant life, security, economy and less bureaucracy. Where are they? he asked.

He said President Roosevelt subscribed 100 per cent to the Democratic platform of 1932, yet "within less than a year after he had been elected, he had torn up that 'covenant with the people to be faithfully kept,' and had adopted a platform in harmony with the views of his left-wing advisers."

Salvage Drive Pace Speeded

At a pace far ahead of last month's, and with indications that a new high record may be established, Boston's five-day September salvage drive began its third day today with house-to-house collections of paper and tin in Wards 11 and 12 of Roxbury and Wards 13 and 14 of Dorchester.

The 10 wards covered in the first two days of the campaign produced 365,890 pounds of paper and 111,200 pounds of tin cans, Salvage Director Hyland announced. This compares with 315,530 pounds of paper and 105,980 of tin collected in the same districts last month.

Army and Navy officials joined with Hyland in calling for an all-out effort on the part of every resident in the 12 wards still to be canvassed.

"Every possible scrap of paper will help the war effort," Hyland said.

James J. Callahan of Thurston st., East Boston, five members of whose family are in the service, was a winner of the salvage drive war bond drawing in his district. Other war bond winners were Bette Ann Moriarty of Trenton st., Charlestown; B. Devaros of Dwight st., South End; Mrs. Jessie E. Carney of St. Botolph st., Back Bay, and Miss Helen E. Jensen of Gray st., Back Bay.

Ninety residents of the wards already canvassed won tickets to the Hamid-Morton circus which opens Sunday at the Boston Garden.

Tomorrow's collections: Boston, Wards 15 through 18, paper and tin, curb. Belmont, paper, curb. Needham, Dist. 4, paper and tin, curb. Hingham, paper, curb. Revere, Ward 4, paper and tin, curb.

New U. S. Aid Seen In China's Dark Hour

CHUNGKING, Sept 20 (AP)—A Chinese cabinet spokesman, commenting upon progress by Japanese troops in their campaign to cut China in two, said today "It cannot be denied that the military situation in China today is very serious."

The spokesman, P. H. Chang, said, however that ample preparations were being made for the defense of Kweilin, Kwangsi Province stronghold, and "when the enemy comes we shall deal him a severe blow."

Japanese columns were reported last night only 10 miles northeast of Kweilin, where the U. S. 14th Air Force recently blew up and abandoned most of its extensive installations.

Greater help for China has been foreshadowed by the visit to Chungking of Donald M. Nelson and Maj.-Gen. Patrick J. Hurley.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek is understood to have accepted a set of recommendations submitted by Nelson, who announced he was leaving "very shortly" for the United States to report to President Roosevelt.

The recommendations include definite plans for bringing more of China's presently available industrial potential to bear upon the combined effort to defeat Japan.

The Chinese high command said Japanese forces which penetrated the easternmost corner of Kwangsi province from the Canton area were within 25 miles of Wuchow, important river port, but declared Chinese troops were attacking the Japanese flanks.

A group of Maryknoll fathers and American Baptist missionaries are stationed in Wuchow.

The high command said Japanese regulars advancing down the Hunan-Kwangsi highway had been halted 31 miles from Kweilin and that Japanese forces at Sinning, 50 miles north of Kweilin were being attacked.

Vet Given 'Break' Errs Again, Jailed

When John V. Kelliher, 21, recently was given probation in Dedham superior court, Judge Abraham Pinanski said he was giving him a break—but today, Quincy police say, Kelliher made one.

A medically discharged veteran of Guadalcanal living on Elmwood ave., Quincy, he was arrested for using a car without authority. Also arrested was John Haughaway, 21, of Shelton rd., Quincy, on sick leave from a military hospital after being wounded in Italy.

The two men, according to Police Sgt. John Coyle of Quincy, were found standing near a stolen car and ran five miles in opposite directions, later being picked up. It was only last week that Kelliher was given a suspended sentence of six months and put on probation for two years for breaking and entering.

Before Judge Gertrude Hallonan in Quincy Court, Kelliher pleading guilty to using the car and was given six months, not suspended this time. Haughaway was turned over to military authorities.

Bay State A. L. For Albany Man

By JAMES F. McENANEY

CHICAGO, Sept. 20—Booming the candidacy of Edward N. Scheiberling, Albany, N. Y., attorney, for national commander of the American Legion, Massachusetts' 65 delegates and alternates were lined up solidly today in the election which will climax the concluding session of the Legion's 26th annual convention here.

Scheiberling is considered a strong favorite for the post. He served as an infantry captain in the last war. The retiring commander is Warren H. Atherton of Stockton, Cal.

While awaiting the election, delegates urged immediate consideration for all members of the armed forces in their search for jobs and rehabilitation in civilian life.

In a prepared address before the closing sessions of the organization's 26th annual convention, F. L. Schlagle, nationally known educator, told the gathering that the returning veterans should have a part in deciding whether a compulsory military training law should be enacted.

Meanwhile, the convention must act on demands for a statute providing for a year of army or navy training for all American youths and to define its position on such subjects as national defense, foreign relations, veterans' rehabilitation and post war planning for the home front.

Robert M. Gaylord, top ranking industrialist, told the convention that industry's job was first to help the returning servicemen "become just as productive as possible," find a spot for new skills and help the able and disabled regain old ones. He recommended that manufacturers immediately set up definite practises of hiring veterans.

MARQUISE DE POLIGNAC
Held as Collaborationist

N. Y. Marquise Detained in Paris

By RUTH COWAN

PARIS, Sept. 19 (delayed) (AP)—The Marquise de Polignac, the former Nina Crosby of New York, who married into the wealthy French champagne family, sat on a cot in Drancy stockade today and said she welcomed arrest as a way to clear her name of rumors that she was a collaborationist.

The marquise said the first tip she had that she was to be held was a French newspaper article attacking her.

Her preparations for incarceration in the stockade make her life there seem luxurious to her fellow prisoners. She has an air mattress and a supply of beauty preparations. She shares the section with several other women of position in French life.

She was beautifully groomed and elegantly dressed in a black wool suit trimmed with gold buttons and wore gold earrings to match.

The marquise said she thought France and Germany should have come to an agreement to prevent the war, but when the war began she worked for the French and could produce evidence of her efforts.

"I never saw any German army, Gestapo or SS people," she added.

Woman on Hotel Ledge Rescued

PORTLAND, Me., Sept 20 (AP)—A 23-year-old woman was pulled from a fifth floor window ledge of the downtown Graymore hotel early today.

Edward J. Foley, a Coast Guard chief petty officer, held her in conversation while a navy shore patrolman and two city policemen rushed to her room.

Foley told police he found a window screen on the pavement and looked up to see the woman step out onto the ledge. He said she told him to get out of the way because she intended to jump.

She was taken to the psychopathic ward of the city hospital.

Rome Police Chief on Trial, Admits Sending 50 to Death

ROME, Sept. 20 (AP)—His hands trembling, former Police Chief Pietro Caruso testified at the trial for his life today that Field Marshal Gen. Kesselring, Nazi commander in Italy, had ordered him to furnish 80 Italian hostages for execution in reprisal for the bombing of an SS column.

The trial, delayed Monday by the lynching of the chief state witness, started today while Allied police stood watchfully by.

Caruso, Rome's police chief during the last four months of German occupation, said the 80 were to be executed with hundreds of others.

"You had better turn them over, otherwise who knows what will happen to us," he quoted the official as saying. Caruso said he complied but cut the number to 50.

The witness also blamed the Germans for the raid on St. Paul's Church last February, when Caruso's police broke into the sanctuary and seized Italian officers and civilians. He said he did not know that the action violated the Vatican's extraterritorial rights.

A tall and handsome co-defendant, Robert Occhietto, secretary to Caruso, testified that he played both sides of the street during the German occupation, obtaining information from the Nazis which he asserted he turned over to Lt. Gen. Mark Clark's Fifth Army.

Runaway Horse Scatters Crowd

Crowds of commuters were sent scurrying today by a runaway horse and wagon which charged through Dewey sq. at the height of the morning rush hour.

The horse was eventually secured by Patrolman John Hillier after a chase in a patrol car, but not before the lurching wagon had been wedged between two parked cars.

The animal, a big chestnut mare, had been left by Sam Bluestein, a peddler of Intervale st., Roxbury, outside a supply house on Kneeland st. Becoming frightened, the horse bolted along Atlantic ave. towards South Station.

Persons emerging from the terminal hastily took cover in store entrances and behind street lamps and mailboxes until the animal was caught.

Bus, Trolley Strike Ends

Service on all bus and trolley lines in the Quincy, Melrose and Salem divisions of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. was returned to normal today after a short-lived strike of 620 operators ended in a compromise wage agreement approved by the regional War Labor Board.

The agreement, reached at a State House conference, calls for payment by the railway of group insurance costs now paid by the workers. This, in effect, gives workers an increase of approximately 5 cents an hour.

The strike had been called in protest against the WLB's approval of an increase of 2½ cents an hour, although both the union and the company had agreed on a boost of 6 cents per hour.

Amnesia Girl Identifies Self

Found wandering aimlessly on Tremont st. and suffering from amnesia when taken to City Hospital, an attractive 22-year-old girl later today identified herself as Jacqueline Wheaton, of Grove st., West End.

At first unable to give any particulars concerning herself, she was seen apparently in a dazed condition by Patrolman Paul R. Sheehan, and at the hospital doctors said she was suffering also from exhaustion as though she had been walking for several hours.

She is said now to be "resting comfortably" at the hospital after recovering her memory.

Police Sgt. Driscoll Buried Today

A large number of his fellow officers attended a high requiem mass today for William E. J. Driscoll, West End police sergeant who died Monday. The mass was celebrated at St. Gregory's church, Dorchester, by the Revs. Bernard J. McNulty, John P. Coffey and William Hogan. Interment followed in Holyhood cemetery, Brookline.

A veteran of World War I who had been on the force since 1917, Driscoll died of a heart attack. He is survived by his widow and two sons in the Navy.

Parolee, 19, Admits 24 Hub Store Breaks

A 19-year-old Shirley reformatory parolee today admitted 24 breaks into Greater Boston stores and garages in the past month and was scheduled to appear in Brighton court on several charges of breaking and entering in the nighttime.

The youth told Lt. James V. Crawley in the police lineup that his home was in Lowell but that he had been living in Scollay sq. rooming houses.

Hitler Danced Over Russian 1939 Pact, Says Ex-Guard

By DON WHITEHEAD
WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN GERMANY, Sept. 15 (Delayed) (AP)—A former personal bodyguard for Hitler told today of the elation with which the Fuehrer greeted the signing of the 1939 non-aggression pact with Russia—the pact that enabled him to attack Poland five days later.

The captured Hitler servant and guard said he was stationed at Hitler's quarters on the day the pact was signed. Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop telephoned the Fuehrer from Moscow to announce the successful conclusion and the batman, hearing a shout rushed into Hitler's private room.

He found Hitler dancing and shouting: "I didn't think it would work! I didn't think it would work!"

The prisoner described Hitler as a capricious and irascible insomniac who neither drinks, smokes, nor eats meat. He said there was no truth to reports of an affair between Hitler and Leni Riefenstahl, but that the Fuehrer had become enamored of a stenographer and carried on an affair which as far as he knows still continues.

He said Hitler was extremely nervous and, before the war, never went to bed before 3 a. m., and was not awakened until 10 a. m. Now, he said, Hitler is called at 8 a. m. daily when he breakfasts on milk and arrowroot pudding.

State May Aid Cape Area, Storm Death Toll Now 28

Officials of Barnstable County met with State Public Works department to discuss plans for rehabilitation of that stricken area as the death toll on land in the hurricane rose to 28.

The latest casualty was Wilbrod Peloquin, 35, of Chicopee st., Willimansett, who was electrocuted when he came in contact with high voltage wires while repairing storm damage on Homestead ave.

Martha's Vineyard without power and refrigeration faced a serious food problem. Emergency supplies were ordered sent there by members of the Governors' disaster committee who made a tour of that island.

State Guards have been posted at strategic points throughout the island to avert a serious fire hazard that now exists with the fire alarm system out of order. The water supply is intact.

Several hundred prisoners of war have been sent into the area to aid in rehabilitation work. The prisoners, from Camp Edwards, are supervised by the Army.

The bodies of five of the 11 crew members of the sunken lightship Vineyard Sound were washed ashore at Cuttyhunk island. At the same time the Navy announced that rescue craft, working under dangerous conditions, were responsible for saving another lightship, the Hen and Chickens, by keeping her upright with three extra anchors.

Tax Commissioner Long and Public Works Commissioner MacDonald said plans were formulated to make a survey and evaluate properties throughout the Cape area, eradicating any injustices to the owners or towns. They revealed this following a meeting with the assessors of 14 towns in the stricken area.

1st Benefits Paid To Jobless Vets

First jobless benefits of the GI Bill of Rights were received by Massachusetts veterans of World War II today when 332 checks totaling $6638 were mailed by the division of employment security.

The payments represented initial weekly unemployment allowances to veterans, according to Robert E. Marshall, division director. Under the law the allowances may continue up to a total of 52 weeks, dependent on length of service in the armed forces.

Marshall said the employment security division had an agreement with the Veterans' Administration for distribution of payments "with the same promptness which has brought to Massachusetts its outstanding record for paying benefits on time."

LONDON, Sept. 20 (INS)—Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels hinted today that the V-2 is ready for action at any hour.

Lake

wounded man's thirsty veins sucked eagerly of the life-giving essence, causing the bubbles to dance in the glass container as the bead dropped steadily to zero.

Another bottle and still another, while the faint rose tints returned to the soldier's cheeks and the blue smudges on his nose and eyelids faded. His marble pallor had quite gone now and there were answering tremors at the corners of his mouth as the battalion surgeon removed the tourniquet above an ugly shrapnel-hole in his thigh and applied an antiseptic solution. "He'll do," said the surgeon quietly.

Weeks ago a civilian blood donor in the U. S. A. had given some of his, or her, vital elixir and while the crimson fluid passed into a half-pint jar, wondered where it would go, to whom and how! So here it is, perhaps the half-pint you gave during that hurried lunch hour, or after work—at this front line "re-fueling station," where injured soldiers come to be gassed up with the vital petrol that keeps their mortal motor turning over. Today, I watched such a one snatched back from the vale of shadows, to live again and return to the little patch of ground and lid of sky that he calls Home. He would have died in that other World War, but in this one, the wounded have a 99 per cent chance. There was another New Englander in that aid station, Pvt. Pasco Cucca of 42 Hurlhurst ave., Providence, a jeep driver who has carried more than 1400 wounded in 14 days.

There was a field well behind the lines where a reserve battalion of anti-tank men were holding a formation, while lookouts scanned the sky for enemy planes. They stood against a background of rolling hills that hump-backed to the horizon in purple layers. It was a water-color scene with sun-flecked patches under a ceiling of soap bubble clouds with little islands of blue sky. So I asked the Colonel if he would kindly shake out any Greater Boston men. He did, and I am pleased to think that I saved nine lads the boredom of an inspection detail, or something more onerous, as we cast aside our metal derbies and sat in the shade for some chin-chopping fatigue.

There was Pvt. Thomas J. Musta of 87 Long st., Roxbury, who used to work as an orderly in the Boston City Hospital and is waiting an overdue package from wife Bernice (Farnum).

Why is it that the Army contrarily makes air gunners out of hospital workers and medics out of something else? For example, here was Pvt. Francis X. Grogan of 24 Hancock st., Worcester, who used to cook for Ed Smith's Lobster & Steak Cafe. (I used to go there after Holy Cross games.) Is Grogan cooking? No! He is male nurse to an Ack Ack gun.

And PFC Alphonse Aleska of 40 Morris st., Lynn, who lately took part on a raid into the German lines and related graphically how he'd "harassed the enemy and then scrammed away." (Note to Mother Mickalina—The home-made cookies were gobbled gratefully by his gun crew.)

And Pvt. Paul F. Harrington of 313 Park st., Medford, a 19-year-old motor cycle dispatch rider, who wants me to tell aunt, Mrs. James Clark, not to raise her new baby to be a soldier.

And Cpl. Oscar H. Campbell of 7 Woodworth st., Dorchester, a former shoe salesman for Melvil Stores (Upham's Corner) who thinks the Army does a swell job of fitting the feet.

And S-Sgt. Harry D. Goldstein, of 73 Fowler st., Dorchester, a supply sergeant, who is called the "Sears Roebuck man," because he can dig up anything from bedsprings to baby nipples, and who plans to go into the cafe supply business as a Middleboro farmer after the with wife, Sylvia's uncle, John Ross.

And PFC Armand A. Lavoie of 243 Fremer st., Manchester, N. H., a French speaking gunner who says the Norman tongue is much like the French-Canadian. (His mother, Georgiana, and his dad, Joseph, speak nothing but French.)

And Pvt. Clement A. Bryant of 19 St. Mary rd., Cambridge, whose mother Minnie used to be the family "bugler" who waked him for work at 5:30 a. m. He thinks it a luxury to lie in his O. D. blankets till 6:45.

And Pvt. Anthony M. Holway, of 5 Holway ave., Provincetown, who hears from the four Snow sisters.

There was Pvt. Stanley V. Kulpa of 183 Peckham st., Fall River, who has his pate shaven smooth as an onyx soda fountain and who has the unenvied job of disarming German booby traps.

And there was Pvt. Donald A. McCarthy of 38 Oakley rd., Belmont, who is just back after a shallow bullet crease in the leg and found a stack of letters from Elaine O'Shea.

And PFC Robert H. Leet, a very large 18-year-older, from 36 Cobden st., Roxbury, a company runner, who carries messages along the front anywhere, any time and thinks, by contrast, of the quiet days when he delivered ice (no short weights either) for Ben Vitali who was on vacation.

And PFC Francis J. Tebo of Clark st., Rochdale (six miles from Worcester), who hears every day from wife Helen (Morrisey) whom he married "the Thanksgiving before Pearl Harbor."

And Lt. Wilbur McCormack of 139 Blossom st., Fitchburg, a keen-eyed company officer who was orienting his "recon" maps before taking his outfit forward, and who graduated from Springfield College's corrective gym course.

And PFC Fred J. Sappa of 125 Crowden st., Central Falls, R. I., who is a "basic," meaning that he is a jack-of-all-trades, and tells Mother Mary his five-weeks-old wound is healed "good as new."

Sorrowing Women Send Buddies Gifts

Many a fighting man in Europe and in the Pacific will receive Christmas gifts this year from sorrowing women they don't know—the mothers, wives and sisters of other men who have fallen in battle. This becomes increasingly clear as thousands write they want to join the Christmas Gifts for Buddies Overseas campaign.

Mrs. Gladys IL Whitehouse of Logan st., Cherry Valley, wrote: "Will you please send us the names of two boys to whom we can send Christmas packages? You see, our overseas mail stopped very abruptly July 13 in France. Joseph was all we had."

Enthusiasm for the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser campaign was expressed by Mrs. Lawrence Plummer of Grapevine rd., Hingham. She wrote:

"I am sending out eight overseas boxes for brothers and friends, so I am sure I can send another. You are doing a beautiful and noble job."

The deadline for mailing Christmas gifts to men in every branch of service overseas is Oct. 15, and the boxes pledged by readers should be prepared and mailed immediately.

Do not send perishable food or other perishable matter. Food, except for a very few items, may not only spoil en route, but may ruin other packages stored around it in the holds of ships. Hard candies, fruit cake well packed in tin, vacuum-packed salted nuts in cans and tinned meats, sardines or other tinned and carefully packed delicacies are always welcome and safe to send.

Pocket knives, hunting knives, razor blades and other sharp-edged articles must be packed most carefully, with blades and points well protected. Fountain pens, wrist watches, mechanical pencils with a supply of leads, windproof cigarette lighters, small pocket flashlights, pipes and smoking tobacco, shaving and toilet kits, GI sewing kits, soap, stationery, small utility waterproof bags, fishing line and bait spinners, harmonicas, playing cards and poker chips are in great demand. Any kind of a small, durable game, such as checkers, cribbage and dominoes is always acceptable.

To enroll in the Christmas Gifts for Buddies Overseas drive, fill out and mail the coupon accompanying this article. Within a few days you will receive the name of a soldier or sailor whose overseas Christmas you may gladden with a holiday package.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—Is it true that the War Dept. has authorized payment of mustering-out pay to veterans, who, being over 38, requested discharge in order to enter defense work? B. T., Cambridge.

A—No. The ruling at the time of mustering-out pay legislation still holds and men in this category are still denied the benefit. However, certain congressional leaders and veteran organizations are trying to alter the rule and favor payment.

Q—Can a veteran of World War II make a loan under the "G. I." Bill to pay back income taxes? J. D., Revere.

A—The loan provision under the "G. I." Bill provides for loans only for purchase of a home, farm or business, or for necessary repairs and replacements. Many veterans who were in similar circumstances as to yours have had to pay less income tax than anticipated and we suggest that you contact Collector of Internal Revenue, Milk st., Boston, and go over your taxes with a deputy collector.

Q—My boy went in the service as a minor and with my full consent. He is now missing in action. Will I receive money due him, that is the six months' gratuity, and his insurance?
L. N. J., Brookline.

A—If a finding of death is made after missing 12 months, or less, you will be entitled to such monies as are due to his death. If you are designated as the beneficiary of his insurance policy, you will receive that also, regardless of his being a minor at time of enlistment.

Q—I was honorably discharged from the Army Dec. 1, 1941, because of a service-connected injury. Am I entitled to apply for mustering-out pay?
J. T., Walpole.

A—No. Only men discharged from the armed forces on or after Dec. 7, 1941, and meeting other stated requirements are entitled to the mustering-out pay.

Q—What is the difference between compensation and pensions? B. C., Milford.

A—Compensation is pay for service connected with death or disability. Pension is used to describe non-service-connected monetary benefits.

All questions addressed to Veterans Friend Editor, Record-American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston 6, Mass., will be published in the columns of these newspapers. If a personal reply is requested it is necessary to enclose a self-addressed and stamped envelope.

A MESSAGE OF APPRECIATION

For the second time in six years Greater Boston has felt the effects of a tropical hurricane. Through a last-minute shift in its path, the center of this 1944 hurricane went out to sea a few miles southeast of Boston and so the territory served by Boston Edison Company did not suffer the devastation which accompanied the hurricane of September 21, 1938. But in many cities and towns relying on the Company for electric service there were interruptions caused by high winds, falling trees, broken poles, and it was necessary to bring into being at once the same kind of emergency organization which met the challenge of the greater calamity of six years ago — with the difference that this was a job of three days, instead of two weeks, as on that occasion.

Now that it is over and service is again normal, Boston Edison Company expresses its appreciation to —

THE PUBLIC — for its patience, consideration and courtesy during trying hours. Customers deprived of electric service realized, almost without exception, that this Company and its repair crews were doing everything humanly possible to restore service in the shortest possible time. Public officials of towns, cities, the state and the Federal government generously offered assistance in manpower and equipment; and while it was not necessary to take advantage of most of these offers, we appreciate the fine spirit which was in evidence.

THE WORKERS — for the courage, the ingenuity and the physical endurance which they contributed to the quick job of restoration. It was intensely inspiring, during the entire progress of the gale, to listen in on Boston Edison's own two-way short wave radio system to the conversations between the men outside restoring service and those directing and aiding their efforts, and to realize that men were out battling the elements without regard for their own comfort. Restoration was largely the work of our own forces, but our appreciation goes also to the crews of the outside contractors who came to our assistance, and to other agencies which offered their aid. Now that our own troubles are over, we have been glad to release these helpers, and as many of our own men as can be spared, to aid other utility companies in southern Massachusetts and along the Cape where the devastation was much greater.

THE PLANNERS — for the preparedness with which Boston Edison met this emergency Since the 1938 hurricane, this Company has had a master plan ready which has been amplified and improved in the intervening years. This plan was already in operation many hours before the hurricane struck, and so there was a minimum of lost motion in getting the work of restoration started. From 8 o'clock Thursday morning until the "back to normal" report of Sunday night this emergency organization functioned with smoothness.

This hurricane has imposed unexpected financial burdens upon this Company, but this is not so important as the fact that only a small proportion of our more than 400,000 customers suffered an interruption of their electric service, and that in most of these cases the interruption was relatively brief.

Iron Man of Marines Sets Mark Of 100 Dive-Bombing Missions

By FAULINE WARREN

A new world record in combat bombing—dive or level—was set today by Boston's Iron Man, Marine Maj. Elmer G. Glidden, Jr., 28, who completed his 100th dive-bombing attack in the Pacific area, according to an Associated Press despatch from the Marshall Islands.

Holder of the Navy Cross with Gold Star and hero of Midway and Guadalcanal, Maj. Glidden [illegible] on an anytime sign when he [illegible] flights of Daunt less dive-bombers today over a Jap-held atoll for his 100th strike.

Barbara Glidden

In West Roxbury there is rejoicing from his old gang, while he spent his summers and was star first baseman on the town team, there is equal rejoicing from all his old pals who still find it bewildering that the shy, unassuming "Lefty" Glidden they knew has been transformed into the Marines' Iron Man.

They listened in awe while the Associated Press dispatch was read to them, but when it stated that Glidden had kept the number of his missions secret, they breathed with relief.

"Ah—that's just like Lefty!"

At his home he's a Pacific there was no fanfare, only an occasional congratulatory handshake when others learned of his 100th dive. As pilots clustered around him, Glidden dismissed them with:

"If you keep flying long enough the number just automatically piles up."

Glidden is an elusive target for the Japs. His planes have been riddled with bullets but he hasn't so much as a scratch, although he was hit by malaria and dysentery during his early campaigns.

Today he told his commanding officer:

"I guess my mother must do a lot of praying for me."

In the meantime his mother, Mrs. Mary Glidden of Scituate, was working at her war job in one of the mold lofts at the Navy Base in South Boston. Winking back her tears, she received the news of his new record.

"He's always forgetting to write home about things like this," she said.

The Iron Man has a brother Robert, an ensign in the Navy, now somewhere on the Atlantic, and three sisters, Mrs. Margaret Kenney, Mrs. Ruth Murphy and Miss Barbara Glidden, all of Scituate.

He attended Mechanics High, studied a year at New Hampton Prep and went to Rensselaer Polytech where he was president of his graduating class. He was on the hockey, soccer and baseball teams.

His year book, listing him as "goalie extraordinary," says: "He doesn't give the girls a break." He's still here.

are not going to be intimidated by the school committee or Power, or by any hints of punitive measures."

The rain-pelted crowd burst into this chant.

"Power can't fool us,
Power can't scare us.
Who's afraid of the school committee?
Boo . . . boo . . . boo."

George E. Bourniquan, a graduate of South High School who said he represented a citizens committee was allowed to address the strikers but he had little success in urging them back to school.

"As long as you stay out of school you are outside the law," he warned.

"We are not!" yelled scores in unison.

Soteropolos jumped up and shouted.

"Our parents are in back of us. They are our backbone. We shall not retreat."

Once more the cheers came. Members of a police detail patrolling streets bordering on the park paused in the downpour to see what was up but no disturbance greeted them.

Under direction of their leaders the strikers divided themselves in groups representing North, South, Classical and Commerce high schools. They elected a committee of 12 who will try to parley with Power and the school committee later today.

The committee will have spokesmen on the radio tonight to present its side of the controversy to the public. The station, WTAG, will also give school officials another opportunity to be heard.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20 (AP)—The stork at the Brookfield zoo was a bit weary today. Births reported within the last 24 hours included a 45-pound baby rhinoceros, said by zoo officials to be the second rhino ever born in captivity; a baby zebra, a gazelle and a kudu.

Director Robert Bean described the baby rhino, whose mother, Mary, weighs 3000 pounds, as the "most beautiful ugly baby in the world." He said the first baby born in captivity was at the zoo three years ago.

Waste of Time

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 20 (AP)—Lt. Col. Laurence D. Smith, commandant of a war prisoner camp at Ft. McClellan, Ala., says it would be a "waste of time" to attempt "converting or re-educating" German prisoners of war to the American way of thinking.

He told a civic club here yesterday that German prisoners "do not like anything they have seen in this country."

Harvest Time

Apple Pickers—Smith College students set to with a will to get in the apple harvest in orchards near the campus in Northampton, and within three hours 60 girls had more than 500 bushels tucked away in baskets and ready for market. Greater Boston students participating were (l. to r.) Susan Swain of Concord, Jeanne Hall of Melrose, Barbara Peabody of West Newton, Louise Boyer of Needham, Marjorie Lvon of Walpole and (kneeling) Margaret Fenn of Concord.

Worcester Students Hold Protest Meeting

Protest

Refusing to accept compromise in their demands for a shorter school day and better cafeteria conditions, some 3000 Worcester High School students held a mass meeting in Elm Park today as some 2000 others were reported attending classes as usual. Above is a section of the Elm Park crowd . . . composed of students and spectators.

Chicago, Illinois, September 16, 1944

MR. WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST
Wyntoon, McCloud,
California.

My Dear Mr. Hearst:

On the eve of the opening of the twenty-sixth Annual American Legion National Convention here in Chicago, I want to express to you my deepest appreciation for the continuous support you and your newspapers have given me and the Legion during my year as National Commander.

Particularly in our long, hard and finally successful fight for passage of the G. I. Bill of Rights the solid nation-wide support of your newspapers was an outstanding aid to our organization, and to the millions of men and women now fighting under the Stars and Stripes.

Down through the years on Americanism, national defense and all other major programs of the Legion, we have had this substantial backing of yourself and your newspapers, and it has been a big factor in our fine record of service.

Wednesday I retire as National Commander and I want you to know that I feel a great deal of the success which I have had this year has been due to your cooperation, guidance and support.

My kindest personal regards for your continued success and health.

Sincerely yours,
WARREN H. ATHERTON,
National Commander.

DEPLORABLE

THE Worcester High School strike is a sad commentary on youthful behavior and parental discipline in the Heart of the Commonwealth.

Once knowledge was so highly regarded in this country that young Americans would endure almost unbelievable hardships to acquire it.

But now in a city long distinguished for its cultural attainments boys and girls act like hoodlums simply because they are asked to spend an additional hour a day in school.

Perhaps if youth in general and Worcester youth in particular could be induced to look upon high schools as costly institutions generously supported by hard-pressed taxpayers rather than as free-for-all playgrounds, educational opportunities would be better appreciated in this turbulent era.

It probably did not occur to the young demonstrators that at the very hour of their disturbance, less fortunate lads were suffering and dying at sea and on battlefields for the very privileges that the young demonstrators value so little.

Many of their elders, including various employes of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway, seem to have no objection to dropping their jobs and participating in strikes of the wildest type.

So it is not unlikely that the trouble-making youngsters are merely following a bad example and patterning their conduct after that of their seniors.

SPLENDID JOB

THE excellent work of the public utility companies and their employes during and after the recent hurricane cannot be praised too liberally.

Because men were willing to endure extreme hardships and even to risk their lives, electric power and telephone communications were restored with amazing rapidity to scores of stricken areas.

In an editorial of this length one can only say:

"Well done. Thanks to you, the word service has a new and fuller meaning in this State and section."

Her polished limbs,
Veiled in a simple robe, their best attire,
Beyond the pomp of dress: for loveliness
Needs not the foreign aid of ornament,
But is, when unadorned, adorned the most.
—THOMPSON.

WOMEN OFTEN say they would like to know what type of attire has the strongest appeal to the male. Of course, much depends on who the male is. And also on the time and place. However, the above is "a man's angle" on general feminine style situation which is worth consideration. For the past several years I have been telling the customers that due to scientific progress, their children might live to be 125 years of age. Now Dr. Theodore G. Klumpp, an authority on the subject, says it might be 130 years. Better start buying your son an annuity. He can then retire at 65 and live 65 years more without working. Ah, what a wonderful thought! How I would like to live 65 years without working. I hate work.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: In Russia, a great horse racing country, you don't win if you pick the winner. You have to pick the winner and the second horse. That's a tough proposition. Try it on today's entries at Belmont . . . October is National Doughnut Month. I like twisted crullers better . . . When I see some women with these up-swept closely clipped hair-dos I think of Robert Burns. Or rather, I think of Mr. Burns' observation:

"O, wad some power the gift to gie us, to see ourselves as others see us."

Yes, sir, a lot of so-called "smart" hair-dos make a woman look like Flora Finch of the silent movie era.

PASSING BY: Renee Carroll, Broadwayite. She has made the occupation of hat-check girl a career. Only a genius could do anything like that. In the past 18 years Renee has checked about a million hats. She has averaged 12 cents a hat in tips . . . Paulette Goddard. She has the most graceful carriage of all the female Hollywoodians. However, she still struts a little. That is a minor fault and could be corrected by a diplomatic friend or relative.

Paulette Goddard

OLD TIMER: Walter Hurnley of Lanceston, Eng., has worked 70 years for the same firm and is still on the job. He is now 90 and walks to work every day. Quite a man. But still not so remarkable an old codger as Harry Beasley, the Irishman, who when 80 years old rode in and won a steeplechase race.

CAN'T WAIT: Remember that great handicap horse Can't Wait, owned by Myron Selznick, the Hollywood actors' agent? This noble animal was named after Rosalind Russell, who was one of Selznick's clients. Every time Mr. Selznick would inform Miss Russell he would let her know definitely about an engagement in an hour or a day or a week she would snap: "Can't wait." So he called her "Can't Wait" Russell and eventually named the aforementioned horse after her.

MOSQUITOES: Have tried many things offered as protection against mosquitoes. Now something used by our armed forces is said to do the trick. It is described as "Formula 612." Will not be available to the general public until after the war. I certainly would like to get the New Jersey or Southeast Texas rights to a good mosquito bite preventative. Even the rights to the territory around Flushing Meadows on Long Island should make a fellow a millionaire in practically no time at all.

Rosalind Russell

INTERESTING EXPERIENCE: Been doing some necessary traveling lately and this has resulted in some interesting experiences, one of which is sleeping in an upper berth. Have you tried that lately? May not be so complicated for an average sized fellow but for a six foot two, overgrown boy like myself it can become a trial. Especially when traveling on the antiquated equipment of the railroads of the deep South. One early morning I was pulling on my pants, or trousers as we say in Brooklyn, in an upper berth when the engineer suddenly applied the brakes. I won't bore you with the tragic details. You can imagine them.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Saw a sign in barbershop window in San Francisco. "Barber Wanted. Ninety Dollars a Week Guaranteed." Why should you tip a man who makes $90 a week? A—The tips are no doubt figured in the guarantee you mention. That is the trouble with tipping. You pay the barbershop owner a good price for a haircut or shave and, in addition to that, he expects you to help take care of the payroll.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1944, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

SEATTLE, Sept. 20—At this point in the campaign, and in the midst of war against something known to us by the conveniently hateful name of Fascism or Totalitarianism, we may inquire what course we have been following here at home.

Westbrook Pegler

Seattle is an appropriate place for such reflection, because here President Roosevelt created a dictatorship by a means so subtle that the people of the nation do not understand what happened, much less how it was done.

We begin with the Wagner act, dishonest in concept and vicious in its administration. The present results were predicted in outline during the debates in Congress, and were not denied at the time. The worst that was said of them by the Roosevelt Senators was that they were exaggerated. The evil principle thus was embraced, and there was disagreement only about the degree.

The stated purpose of the Wagner Act was to permit workers to join unions free of coercion from their employers. That could have been achieved by a simple law forbidding employers to fire or threaten to fire or otherwise punish workers for joining unions, with adequate penalties. Complaints under such a law could have been tried in the Federal courts and prosecuted as routine cases by the regular Federal district attorneys.

Instead, Mr. Roosevelt's law set up its own system of non-judicial courts and its own staff of investigators, referees and judges. These persons, mostly lawyers, included many Communists and political and social allies of the Communists, even in the membership of the Labor Relations Board itself. They were selected not for their impartiality, but for their partiality to the unions and their prejudices against the employers and the workers themselves.

THE intent was to drive millions of workers into the unions and make them accept collective bargaining agents presented by Mr. Roosevelt out of his political following. Subsequent testimony before a committee of the House of Representatives proved that the personnel was handpicked with this prejudice in mind. It was admitted, unwilling workers couldn't refuse to join, lest they lose their jobs. That too, is admitted. In fact it is ordered.

AS A RESULT, these union bosses of the President's party were enabled to collect not mere millions nor hundreds of millions but thousands of millions of dollars from the workers. The bosses have never been required by law to account for five cents of the money. Nobody knows how much they have reserved for themselves or spent for the re-elections of President Roosevelt and the consequent protection of their taxing power because nobody has legal access to their books.

Not even the union members can see the books if the bosses refuse permission. Last spring, Congress did pass a law requiring them to report their income to the Internal Revenue, not for taxation, but merely as information. But, with the campaign coming on, the Treasury Department, under Henry Morganthau, re-wrote the law by "interpretation" so that not even the government has access to the figures.

Meanwhile, during all these years, coercion by the union bosses was encouraged, even to the extent of riot, insurrection, terror and actual slaughter, all for the purpose of driving millions of workers into the unions so that they could be taxed by the President's political satraps. All this was done by an elaborate government agency for the ostensible, simple purpose of preventing employers from firing men for joining unions or putting them in fear of discharge for joining.

But the Wagner Act wanted more than mere forbiddance and punishment for violation. It wanted compulsion. Our American laws say you shall not do a thing. This one says you must do certain things or you will be punished. And those punishments were contrived to threaten the workers who were supposed to be the subjects of protection under the Wagner Act.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has selected the dinner of the high dignitaries of the Teamsters' Union as the occasion for a speech which he says will be the first political oration of the campaign.

Seattle is the scene of a dictatorship established by Dave Beck, one of the high powers of the Teamsters' Union.

So it is appropriate that Mr. Roosevelt's political talk should be addressed to the Teamsters' Union. The union bosses, including old Dan Tobin, the President, are his people, his gauleiters. He made them, sustains and protects them and they serve him, and his party. It is the most arrogant and vicious coalition since the tragic era of the carpet-baggers in the South and was contrived with this intent.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20—In my job you never know when you are going to stumble on clues. The other night I had dinner with Bob and Betty Young and on the coffee table was a script of my "dotter's" RKO movie, "The Enchanted Cottage." Well, even if she doesn't ever give me a tip about her plans, I'm a girl who can put two and two together and, sure enough, next day came word RKO was lucky enough to borrow Bob from Metro for the "Cottage."

This means he will play opposite Dorothy McGuire, as soon as she gets back from New York. The starting date is October 2 and Herbert Marshall and Mildred Natwick were signed several weeks ago. Harriet, who makes her debut as an RKO producer with "The Enchanted Cottage," took a look at the original silent picture [illegible] Cromwell and found the comparisons interesting.

* * *

VIVIEN LEIGH, as we told you, takes time out to have a baby, but after the birth, according to a letter from England, she will have the starring part in No Sorrow Can Bend "Pastoral." I am told Alexander Korda has bought it for Vivien and, since he and David Selznick hold her contract, she will probably make this picture instead of coming to America, as she had planned. I have a copy of "Pastoral" on my night table to read. I haven't finished it but so far as I've gone would say it is a modern "Farewell to Arms."

* * *

TRUE TO the Navy tradition, Lt. Robert Taylor hasn't told one thing about his plans, but I learned why he is in Hollywood. He has been on the M-G-M lot editing a Navy film. Then he goes to 20th to act as commentator for "The Fighting Lady." Said Com. Jack Bolton: "'The Fighting Lady' is all about the Navy, so it is only fitting that the commentator should be a Navy man." A special training film on naval aviation is to be made in Chicago and Bob has been asked to go there. He is doing the same sort of job Maj. Clark Gable did when he was in the Army. Important because of their popularity and because of their specialized knowledge.

* * *

NOT MANY people know "The Horn Blows at Midnight" was half completed when Warners gave Jack Benny permission to make his South Pacific junket. Now that Jack is back (and some day I want to show him the letters the boys wrote me about what his trip meant to their morale) the "Horn" will start tootin' again. Alexis Smith and Dolores Moran are already standing by for the two weeks more of shooting. Then Jack starts his new radio show without pausing for a breather. There's a grand guy!

MARTHA O'DRISCOLL isn't unhappy about going into the Abbott and Costello picture because she knows their pictures are moneymakers, but she is peeved at Universal for putting her in that show right now, because she had made all arrangements to go overseas with Pat O'Brien. Universal has told her she can go as soon as she finishes the Abbott and Costello picture. One reason she wants to go overseas, other than to entertain the boys, is that Martha wants to get away because of her unhappy marriage. She's taking it greatly to heart and has done her utmost to persuade Lt. Com. Richard Adams to make their separation legal.

* * *

IF M-G-M keeps up the pace it's setting as a backer of Broadway plays, Leo the Lion may be traded in for an "angel" trademark. Laurence Stallings' new play, "The Streets Are Guarded," is the latest to be sponsored by Metro as a Broadway stage production of course, with the idea it will later become a movie. Last week I told you Stallings had completed a deal with M-G-M. Other stage shows making their bow this season "angeled" by this company are "Bloomer Girl" with Celeste Holm "Soldier's Wife" with Martha Scott and "Violet" starring Alfred Hitchcock's daughter, Pat.

"Confound it! Before our marriage I used to kid about this. We really HAVE run out of gas!"

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Dickie Tyler writes he is very proud because Elissa Landi has asked him to be the godfather of her girl. Elissa is married to Curtis Thomas when Al Bloomingdale leaves here September 25 he'll leave his heart with Betty Nowling. Evelyn Ankers expects her baby October 1. Arthur Shaw is driving around in Lana Turner's car but how much that means no one knows since she is apparently crazy about Turhan Bey. Jack Benny was given a welcome home by the Nathan Goetzes, who had a dinner for him at the Thelma Todd cafe. Gary Cooper, Claudette Colbert, Loretta Young, Col. Tom Lewis, Mary Livingstone and the Freyd Selznicks were in the party. Lt. John Howard who has been away from Hollywood over two years, is expected back any day. Word has been received that Ella Logan is in France. The Bud Abbotts celebrating their 20th wedding anniversary and the christening of their 5-year-old adopted boy. Lou Costello will be his godfather. Betty Hutton in "Sing You Sinners" got so many cheers and yells from the sailors in the audience a fan from San Francisco writes he had to go back and see the picture all over. Marcus Loew II, grandson of the late Marcus Loew and son of David Loew will wed Ethel Snyder, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Nathan Snyder of Beverly Hills. She is 18 and he is 21 and a private in the Air Corps. A waiter in a night club was heard to remark: "The war is a cinch to the way most the customers are threatening to talk back!"

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Sept. 20—After a great deal of intense sleuthing (it involved several disguises, a houn' dog, telephone calls to the FBI and numerous trips to El Morocco) I have discovered why Clark Gable was in town for a couple of days incognito. It's pretty startling stuff for a family newspaper, and I don't know whether I ought to reveal it or not, but I will. He was here to purchase a car. Clark has had a yen for a big, snappy, foreign car ever since he came back from the wars, and finally someone located just what he was looking for—a Bentley with a $4500 price tag on it.

Ed Wynn

James Melton, the tenor, had a Mercedes-Benz (or was it an Isotta-Fraschini?) that he was willing to part with for $7500 but Clark said: "I could buy the Empire State Building for that," and settled on the little, inexpensive number.

* * *

WONDER IF there's any truth to the rumors they've been all around Broadway the past few nights that Ed Wynn is a bridegroom or about to become a bridegroom? In the past few years, every time I've asked Mr. Wynn (funny, you call Durante "Jimmy" and Lahr "Bert" but you always call Wynn "Mr.") about romance or marriage he's always looked rather sad and given his gentle little half-apologetic giggle and shaken his head and said no, not for him, he thought he'd spend the rest of his days a bachelor. But I guess the most confirmed bachelor has a right to change his mind.

Anyway, the scuttlebutt along the Stem has it that the beloved comic and the beautiful blonde, Eleanor Schramm, are very close to the altar, one way or another—either just leaving, or just approaching it.

ALL BAND LEADERS seem to have personal stooges, a very important part of the biz. The stick-wavers call them valets, but I fear that it is a euphemism of the first water, for nowhere else except in the band business does a valet stick around after hours, socially, one might say, and murmur: "You're a wonderful boss!" at the proper moments. I am told these "valets" of the baton world even have fan clubs.

One of the most popular of these lads is Popsie, a Greek, who massages Woody Herman's ego. He's young, and I asked why he was called Popsie. The answer was slow in forthcoming. Then it was revealed that Popsie means "shut up" in his native Greek.

Boston After Dark

THE SHOW CALLED "MEN TO THE SEA" owes an additional vote of thanks to City Censor John Spencer, who has been belabored mightily by critics and editorial writers alike for his handling of "censorable" portions of the new drama . . . The first vote of thanks, of course, was due the censor for the publicity given "Men to the Sea" before it opened . . . As everybody knew would happen, the box-office became instantly of the sell-out variety.

* * *

BUT THE NEW THANKS owing to Censor Spencer impends on the harsh hint in playwriting manners the censor gave the creators of "Men to the Sea" when he demanded a lot of blue-pencilling before the Boston opening . . . At Mr. Spencer's behest, considerable profanity was eluded from the 'script . . . Notwithstanding these enforced cuts from both dialogue and action, "Men to the Sea" was a lusty, "meat-and-potatoes" offering with occasional strong expletives and words which many theater-goers considered offensive.

* * *

THE CENSOR WENT to work again, and after the Boston premiere, additional strikings-out were in order . . . And then came the miracle . . . Whether in disgust at the constant censorial hacklings or not, Producer Dave Wolper and Author Herbert Kubly suddenly decided to eliminate every cuss-word or vulgarism in the play . . . As it stands now, the pretty lips of Joyce Matthews utter the harshest expletive in the play when she exclaims "Good Heavens!"

* * *

MISS MATTHEWS IN PRIVATE LIFE is Mrs. Milton Berle, wife of the comedian . . . She will have cause to remember her current Boston engagement most fondly . . . Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer sent its chief New York talent scout to see Miss Matthews' performance . . . He must have been satisfied, as Joyce was given an offer forthwith . . . But the offer was that of a "test," and Miss Matthews said no . . . Lee Shubert also was impressed with Joyce's performance.

* * *

BECAUSE MR. SHUBERT is producer of Milton Berle's starring vehicles, he and Mrs. Berle are friends . . . They have met socially here and there and Joyce has been present at more than one business conference . . . But Mr. S. did not recognize her when he saw her show . . . He did recognize, however, the fact that a competent job was being done by the young woman who stepped from the chorus ranks for the first time in essaying this role in "Men to the Sea" . . . So Mr. S. inquired the identity of the "black-haired girl." (Miss Matthews has dyed her beautiful blonde tresses so that there would be no "conflict" in appearance with another member of the cast.)

* * *

ONE OF HIS SEVERAL right bowers informed Mr. Shubert that the black-haired girl was his old friend, Mrs. Milton Berle . . . The visiting theatrical mogul shook his head sadly . . . "Why did she do that to her beautiful hair?" he is reported to have demanded . . . And then he strode out of the theater. Milton Berle's next show, incidentally, will be called "Spring in Brazil" . . . It is scheduled for rehearsal in January, opening in Boston the following month.

* * *

JAN WILDBERG, THE BEAUTIFUL new bride of John Wildberg, the producer, is about to crash the producing ranks herself . . . Her first offering will be a comedy called "Miss Brown" . . . The Wildbergs were in town for the opening of "The Perfect Marriage," which Samson Raphaelson, the author, regards as his best play to date.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20—A lot of anonymous praties whom I suspect to be New Dealers have called me in recent months to suggest that I—or, in a pinch, J. Edgar Hoover—should investigate Senator Brewster of Maine.

Sen. Brewster

"There is more there than meets the eye" is the burden of their dark insinuations. "He must be trying to hide something.

"All his life, up to a few months ago, he was Ralph O. Brewster, and was listed as such in a thousand places, including the Congressional Directory.

"Then he suddenly became Owen Brewster!"

I tried to tell the callers that Senator Brewster had made public explanation of the change; that he abhorred the name "Ralph" because people were always calling him Ralphie."

"My customers, however, refused to accept this explanation.

"Humph!" they sniffed. "That will not hold water! If he didn't like the name 'Ralph,' why didn't he change it when he was a kid instead of waiting all these years? You can bet the real reason is something more sinister."

Well, I am a reasonable fellow, open to almost any kind of suggestion as long as it is scurvy enough, so I got thinking mayhe these detractors had a point.

* * *

THE UPSHOT was that I called Senator Brewster and said:

"What is the real, honest-to-goodness reason why you changed your name? And none of your Down East evasion or beating around the bush!"

"The public explanation I gave was partly right," he finally confessed. "When I was a kid I had a dear old aunt Grace Brewster, who always called me 'Ralphie' and it used to nearly drive me berserk. I yearned to do something about it but this aunt was a lovable old soul and I didn't want to hurt her.

"Auntie Grace finally passed away, but in the meantime I had gotten married. And when I suggested I change my name my wife raised the roof.

"'I married Ralph Brewster,' she said, 'and I would feel I was living in you-know-what if you changed your name.'

"But I kept after her," continued Senator Brewster, "and a few months ago she finally gave in. But it took me from 1915 to 1943 to do it."

Senator Brewster said he liked "Owen" because it is an old family name and also very difficult to corrupt.

"There were times when 'Ralphie' soured my soul," he said. "Back in 1912, when I was only 21, I was elected president of the Progressive Club in Dexter, Me. That was the time of the Teddy Roosevelt-Taft split.

"Naturally, I was very puffed up—until I learned the sole duties of the president were to clean the oil torches we used in political parades. I had to clean 250 torches—and I used to get 'Ralphied' to death by all the guys who had made a sucker out of me."

"But how," I asked, "did you finally win your wife around?"

"She said 'You are now 54—and I guess a change of name won't hurt you!'"

* * *

SENATOR BREWSTER reminded me that Senator Bridges of New Hampshire also had changed his name. He used to be Henry Styles Bridges and is now only Styles Bridges. So I called Senator Bridges, too.

"I made the switch," confided Senator Bridges, "because a lot of people called me 'Harry.' And a fellow named 'Harry Bridges' was getting too much unfavorable publicity. He was the CIO West Coast guy they tried to deport.

Smart Set

Army, Navy Wedding

By BETTY ALDEN

POST DEB KAY KENNEDY, daughter of a well-known Army officer, has lived most of her life in Army circles but is soon to join the Navy via the matrimonial route.

Formally known as Katharine Louise Kennedy, her engagement to Lt. (j.g.) William Hadwen Barney, Jr., USNR, is announced by her parents, Col. Grafton S. Kennedy now serving in France, and Mrs. Kennedy of "Over-Sea," Nantucket, "Duncarrick," Dayton, O., and Cambridge. The bride-to-be is a member of the Junior League and a graduate of Brummer School and Wellesley College.

She had the excitement of making her debut in both Boston and Dayton in the season of '38-'39, and has been a society editor in both cities since college. Her Boston debut was a luncheon at the Women's City Club given by her mother who is active on the club's hospitality committee, and she was presented to Dayton society at a ball given by her aunt, Mrs. Kleon Thaw Brown.

New Plymouth Play a Sellout

By PEGGY DOYLE

"The Perfect Marriage," Samson Raphaelson's new play about a smart young New York couple who almost talk themselves out of a 10-year-old marriage, is a nostalgic thing that made this Plymouth first-nighter realize how long ago before-the-war was.

Patently, the production represents a notable collaboration of talents . . . co-stars Miriam Hopkins and Victor Jory, producer Cheryl Crawford, playwright-director Raphaelson, costume-creator Valentine. As a consequence, last night's Hub premiere assembled a sellout house, on the qui vive for the curtain to go up.

It did, discovering the attractive Mr. and Mrs. Dale Wilhams in their charming Oliver Smith-designed upstairs sitting room, observing the 10th anniversary of a seemingly blissful marriage with too much good-will and deliberate loving-kindness.

They finally talk each other into a Reno mood but slow-motion, with Miss Hopkins brittle where Miss Lawrence was blithe in another of the author's mister-and-missus conversation pieces.

Actually, there are seven characters in "The Perfect Marriage," three of them Mabel and Addison Manning, impersonated by Helen Flint and James Todd, and a brisk and handsome divorcee tired of being on the make and of the marriedness of married men whom Martha Sleeper makes arresting.

These have something to say but not enough and not amusing enough except in the instance of the spade-naming Miss Sleeper, who was almost in sole charge of what comedy the script contained Mabel Manning is secretly delighted, you have no doubt, to spill all she knows about Dale's last-winter dates with the poaching divorcee. Her husband, the divorcing couple's lawyer, has heard it all before and knows advice is wasted.

With only occasional interruptions from the afore-mentioned and Rosa, the colored maid Evelyn Davis creates with such restrained skill, and continuous interruptions on the part of the Williamses' precocious 9-year-old, Helen, the play goes on and on.

"JANIE," the stage comedy hit about 'teen-age kids, has transferred its merriment to the screen with Joyce Reynolds in the title role. You'll be seeing it on the Met screen, starting tomorrow. Dick Erdman plays one of the two movie strangers in a manner to disturb a father about his daughter's taste in young men.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Tuesday—I wonder if many of my readers saw the recent story about the Helen Keller medal and cash awards given by the Jewish Braille Institute of America in the Spanish section of their 1943 literary competition. The presentation was made by Dr. Charles Henry Stevens, American cultural relations attache in Mexico.

These competitions for the blind have been carried on for three years, not only in the United States but in the British Empire and throughout the Latin American countries.

The three Spanish section prizes were won by residents of the Escuela Nacional de Ciegas. Their names are Pablo Calderon, Antonio Chavez Garcia and Pedro Mordes y Morales. One boy won honorable mention. His name is Rafael Guillermo Sarria, and his home is in Puerto Rico.

They characterize this occasion as a "bond of light" between the residents of the United States and the Republic of Mexico, and I think that is a very charming way to increase the bonds which draw our two countries closer together.

Helen Keller, of course, is a great inspiration to all those who are similarly afflicted.

* * *

I HAPPENED to see the other day that Dr. Martha Eliot, assistant chief of the Children's Bureau, is urging more women to become doctors. It was a long fight before women were finally accepted into the medical corps of the armed forces.

Here at home, the shortage of doctors has given women a chance to practice in a broader field than they would have had an opportunity to enter before. The war quotas which formerly held down the number of women admitted to medical schools have been eliminated, and the whole outlook for women in medicine is more favorable.

How to Keep Skin Lovely

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

DO YOU SUFFER from an "inferiority" complexion? Gather round all you career girls, who'd rather have a flawless skin than eat, for today's story is one of the most important of the week's schedule.

Every girl has been told since she was knee high to a grasshopper that beauty is only skin deep . . . and that beauty of soul is the greatest gift. We're not doubting either statement. But, it is usually the girl with the beautiful complexion that has the most fun out of life . . . while the gal with the troubled skin sits home and mopes.

True, one's inner worth should unquestionably be developed to the very utmost. But, the fact remains undeniable that we don't go round peering into each other's souls as much as we peer into each other's faces . . . and that "a beautiful skin" are still the sweetest words to any girl's heart.

For what can give the illusion of beauty more than the skin? When it is clear and healthful, blemish-free and radiant we're sitting on top of the world. For, pray tell, how can a young girl express her true personality . . . when her embarrassed thoughts are concerned with the blossom on her chin and the pus-filled, disfiguring pimples on her cheeks . . . or the blackheads on her forehead?

If you have a complexion full of erupting humps and bumps . . . let me tell you about two simple yet effective things that can be done to restore your skin to smooth perfection. That's what we said . . . smooth perfection . . . and that's what we mean. The two go hand in hand.

One is a sulphur skin soap . . . containing colloidal sulphur, one of the most important correctives for oily, erupted skin . . . ask any dermatologist . . . And the other is a lotion with unusual triple-action, bearing a formula number because professional ethics forbids the use of the name of the famous skin specialist whose wonderfully healing preparation it is. In addition to hiding unsightly eruptions, the lotion acts as a powder base and its soothing, cleansing properties work beneath your make-up meanwhile.

For the names of these skin beautifiers and magical combatants for the skin with all too active oil glands, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

AN UNSIGHTLY SKIN has reduced more than one young girl to the state of playing ostrich at home when she should be out dancing the soles off her slippers. But, any girl can have a skin clear and velvety smooth as Joyce Reynolds' by using a lotion and medicinal soap that has become the by-word for skin beauty because it contains magical stuff for the skin with all too active oil glands.*

Fears to Lose Right One

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I'm 18 years old and in love with two marines, both of whom live in my home town. One of these boys is overseas and the other expects to be shipped out soon. Both of them have told me they love me and expect me to marry them when the war is over.

I have received expensive gifts from both boys, although mother advised me not to accept them. I've been afraid of losing the wrong boy, so I've accepted gifts. And I don't want to hurt either one of them. Please advise me what to do.

UNDECIDED.

I wonder if you're really as deeply in love with these two marines as you are with the thrill of having two men wanting to marry you. And the expensive gifts you received from each have probably added confusion to your belief that you love them both.

At 18, and feeling the way you do about them, it seems to me it would be a grave error in judgment to decide on either at present.

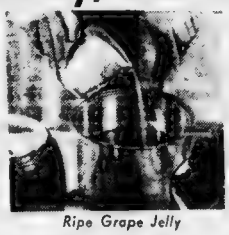
Ripe Grape Jelly, Jam Easy to Make

By MARTHA LEE

THE FABLE about "The Fox and the Grapes" has always been considered one of Aesop's best parables. This particular fox in the story had his eye on some plump and luscious grapes hanging far up on the vine. No matter how high he jumped he could never reach his heart's desire. Finally he gave up and went about his business, consoling himself with the thought that the grapes were probably sour anyway.

That long-suffering fox was very much like some women who decide to turn ripe grapes into homemade spreads, and then—when the jelly won't jell—decide there's something wrong with the fruit.

Now that's just the kind of thing Aesop had in mind—and in this modern-way parable it's frequently the jelly-making procedure that's wrong and not the fruit. Delicious ripe grapes can be made into perfect jelly by following a short-boil recipe—and you'll have finer flavor—and more glasses, too.



Ripe Grape Jelly

RIPE GRAPE JELLY

½ cups juice 7½ cups sugar
½ bottle commercial fruit pectin

To prepare juice, stem about 3 lbs. fully ripe grapes and crush thoroughly. Add ½ cup water, bring to a boil, cover and simmer 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. (Concord grapes give best color and flavor. If Malagas or other tight-skinned grapes are used, use 3½ cups grape juice and add strained juice of 2 medium lemons.) Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 10 medium glasses.

RIPE GRAPE JAM

5½ cups prepared fruit
7 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, slip skins from about 3lbs. fully ripe grapes. Add 1 cup water to pulp, bring to a boil, and simmer, covered, 5 minutes. Remove seeds by sieving. Chop or grind skins; add to pulp. If desired, the grated rind of an orange may be added. Measure sugar into dry dish, and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 5 to 6 quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary. Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring, constantly. (To reduce foaming, ½ teaspoon butter may be added). Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 12 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

GRAPE AND PLUM JELLY

½ cups juice 7½ cups sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare juice, stem about 1½ lbs. fully ripe loose-skinned grapes. Add about 2 pounds fully ripe plums (do not peel or pit). Crush fruits thoroughly. Add ¾ cup water, bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly bag and squeeze out juice. Add strained juice of 1 medium lemon. Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin at once. Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Two Colored Suits New

By BETTINA BEDWELL

AMONG the important new styles that Norman Norell has introduced this fall is the suit that comes in blended colors. He combines such shades as dark brown and vivid blue, cloudy gray and rose in these suits, which have a very new and different look to them. The two colors are usually concentrated in the jackets, one color being encrusted into the other in decorative stripes or other patterns.

One such model is sketched. This is a Norell suit in dark brown smooth wool and the loose jacket has bands of royal blue wool set in in stripes. The way the jacket is wrapped over and held close to the body is a style item to notice.

PETERMAN'S DISCOVERY

Hanlon Declares War on Bookmakers

By JACK CONWAY

GREAT BARRINGTON, Sept. 20—President Gordon B. Hanlon of Suffolk Downs told this writer he is prepared to place a new service in Suffolk Downs in 1945 that will enable the track to get clear of bookmakers who infested it during 1944.

"I do not want bookmakers operating at Suffolk Downs" said the youthful head of the East Boston track while having dinner with Racing Commissioner Harry Allen, Mrs. Allen, Larry Breshnan, Carl Frost, Frank Ryan and this writer. "I am prepared to pay a good salary to any one who can handle this work properly. I feel bookmaking at Suffolk Downs should be eliminated as it has been in Rockingham Park. I ask for the co-operation of the press. If our present agencies at the track have failed to eliminate the evil, I wish to take necessary steps to bring about the needed reform."

Gordon B. Hanlon

Bookmakers have worked openly in the club house and grand stand at Suffolk Downs. The big bets have been taken by men who are known to rookie police officers.

"How much money do you think the bookmakers keep from going into the mutuel machines at Suffolk Downs each day?" Hanlon asked.

Court records show that the only bookmakers taken into custody have been those who have handled small play.

While the small fry bookmakers have been taken into courts and subjected to other humiliations, the bookmakers who have taken bets from $1000 to $5000 have gone unmolested.

There was a period at Suffolk Downs when the former boss of gambling in Boston occupied a choice box near the finish line with a group of his henchmen and accepted any amount of money the horsemen wished to wager. The bets were cut up among the occupants of the box.

The matter was called to the attention of the Suffolk Downs management but no action was taken on the matter as the gambling king did not make memorandums of his wagers. At the time the Czar was part owner of a dog track and his own track had a crew of plain clothes men on the job who were supposed to ban bookmaking on the grounds.

Salary No Object

Hanlon says the right man will be paid well for running bookmakers out of Suffolk Downs. This writer learned that a man, who knows all of the bookmakers and their ways of operating is preparing for an early interview with Hanlon.

The Massachusetts Racing Commission, composed of Chairman Charles F. Connors, Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., and Harry Allen, will give 100 per cent support to the effort to clean up Suffolk Downs. It feels that the youthful Hanlon, eager to do something big for racing, has the right idea in deciding to clean house.

"If we have bookmakers and other objectionable people on our premises, we want to run them off the property," Hanlon told me. "All I wish is the right man to do the job. We shall see that he gets proper compensation for his work. Salary is no object in a matter that will do so much for racing and also for our racing property."

Rock Has Banned Books

Lou Smith's Rockingham Park has banned bookmakers for years. Many of the persons who take the big bets at Suffolk Downs are not permitted to enter Rockingham Park. Lou Smith and Arthur Layton in charge of his crack crew of detectives have kept the bookmakers off the track. This has not only aided the race track but it has resulted in thousands of additional dollars in revenue for Rockingham Park.

Layton like Smith has has been around racing all of his life and he knows the persons who are carrying on their illegal business at the tracks where they are not molested. The book makers are told firmly they cannot operate at Rockingham Park. They are then denied admission to the grounds.

It is refreshing for President Hanlon to recognize an existing evil at Suffolk Downs and make plans for eliminating it.

Tigers Widen AL Gap

Boston was practically eliminated, New York was tottering and St. Louis was a faltering second to the league-leading Detroit Tigers today after the most important 24 hours of the American League season, according to the Associated Press.

Steve O'Neil's Tigers, who had never been on top until Sunday, had opened up a game and a half gap on the Brownies by knocking off the Yanks in the opener of a crucial series while St. Louis and Boston lost.

Detroit's 4-1 victory over New York's ace, Hank Borowy, took most of the wind out of the champs' sails

The Brownies were shut out, 6-0, in 11 innings by the dungeon-bound Washingtons. Disaster struck Boston at Cleveland where the Red Sox bowed, 8-2, to Steve Gromek's efficient nine-hit tossing.

Dizzy Trout was primed today to match Hal Newhouser's feat of beating the New Yorkers six times in the same season, the first time the champs had been so humiliated since the days of Walter Johnson. Trout held five wins over the Yanks and Newhouser made it six yesterday.

World Series fever began to hit the Motor City with 28,290, the year's largest weekday turnout at Briggs Stadium, watching the home club move three full games in front of the Yankees.

Boudreau Likes Tigers For A. L. Title Win

By JOE CASHMAN

CLEVELAND, Sept. 20—Lou Boudreau, one of the smartest baseball managers, casts his vote for the Tigers as the next A. L. champions.

"They've got the pitching, they've got the punch, they've got the spirit and, above all, they've got the schedule in their favor," says the Cleveland Indian's short-stop-pilot in discussing the pace-setting Bengals.

Lou, it was suggested, might be slightly prejudiced. You see, he and his Indians had themselves clawed six times in eight games by the Detroiters over the past fortnight. It could be he is over-estimating Steve O'Neill's gang.

"I am prejudiced in the Tigers' favor," admitted the Forest City boss. "But not because of the lickings they recently handed us. It's what those guys showed me that makes me so high on them."

"Newhouser and Trout are the two best pitchers in the league. O'Neill had little else in the pitching line earlier in the season, but he has now. You should have seen Overmire and Gentry against us."

"Rudy York is knocking the cover off the ball. Dick Wakefield is the greatest young hitter in the game. Every time you look up the wily 'Doc' Cramer and Mike Higgins are getting on base.

"Joe Hoover and Eddie Mayo have become one of the smoothest keystone combinations in the league. Jimmy Outlaw is playing inspired ball.

"I'd say, though, that the guys who have made the team are Paul Richards, the catcher, and young Wakefield.

"They don't make 'em any smarter than Richards behind the bat. He deserves much credit for the brilliant showing of Trout and Newhouser, who now effectively use deliveries they never threw before, and he's entirely responsible for the steady improvement shown by Gentry and Overmire.

"Wakefield has done more than add his heavy punch to the attack. He's also added fifty points to York's batting average.

"I never saw Rudy look so helpless at the plate as he did early this season. The only power hitter in the lineup, he realized he had to carry the whole load and he wasn't equal to the task. He was never in that spot before. He always had a Greenberg or Wakefield around with him.

"As soon as Dick returned, in mid-season, it lifted the pressure on the big Indian and he's been knocking down the fences ever since."

Lou, making the speech before last night's game, didn't mention the Sox chances. Those chances weren't worth even whispering about when the Hose got scalped, 8-2, falling five full games back of first place.

Medford Tackles Show Charging Prowess

Medford Has Depth For Grid Campaign

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Have no fears about Medford High School's fate on the gridiron this season for Coach Eddie "Pockets" Pidgeon is going to have a football team—and a real one—before his schedule reaches the midway mark.

Everybody realizes that there'll be only one full fledged veteran—Co-Capt. Pete Gerardi—but they know from the activity on the Gillis Stadium green that Coach Pidgeon has something cooking for a hot reception for all visitors.

When a coach, in high school ranks, will call for secret practise sessions almost two weeks before the opening of the season, there's something up. When a coach has his togs, specially tailored with pockets, loaded with play charts, you can rest assured that he's installing some tricky system for his boys to spring on the opposition. Saturday's opener against Melrose may bring to light some of the mysterious happenings of the Medford training period.

"We'll have an average line and a light backfield," declares Coach Pidgeon, "but I think we'll do all right. We won't have as much strength as we did in the past but at least we'll have some depth. I've got a couple of teams working on a par now and a third complete eleven that will give a fine account of itself as spares."

Gerardi, actually captain of the team since the induction of co-leader Vin Zampel into the U. S. Navy, will, of course, be setting the pace for the first team, calling the plays from his quarterback slot. Gerardi, like his predecessor Joe Gianelli, is a truck-horse on the gridiron and he's equally talented. He'll be cracking the lines and backing up his own in the same smashing style that stamped Gianelli as one of the standouts of last fall's campaign.

Gerardi will be calling plays for John Cannava, at left half, Dick Palumbo, at full, and John "Buzzer" Hayes at right half. Al will be green but with their captain leading the interference, they'll round into first class ball carriers.

The starting line, without Zampel, will offer a new list of Medford players, all strangers, with slight exception, to the fans. Hugo Barsanti and Bill Sullivan will be on the wings starting out against Melrose; Frank DeCicco and Bernie Holgerson will be at the tackles; Leonard "Sugar" Cervone and John Murphy will be at the guards and Pete Drennan will hold down the center berth.

Pidgeon's second stringers will list Bob Marchant and Norman Bonney on the ends; Phil Merrow and George Henry at tackles; Jim Sullo and Joe Morelli at guard and John Polcary at center. The backfield, with Bill Fogarty understudying Capt. Gerardi, will find baseballer Ed Coppinger at full and John Stevenson and Bill McDonald at halves.

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Oregon dropped football for duration of war.

THREE YEARS AGO—Whirlaway won Lawrence Realization Stake by 10 lengths to earn $23,050 and become third highest money-winning horse.

FIVE YEARS AGO—Crowd of 33,868 in Detroit contributed to gross gate of $347,870 and saw Joe Louis defend heavyweight title by knocking out Bob Pastor in 11th round of scheduled 20-rounder. Pastor was floored four times in first round and once in second.

Columbus Day Twin Bill at Rockingham

SALEM, N. H., Sept. 20—Lou Smith, whose Rockingham Park will start its long autumn meeting a week from next Monday, builded better than he knew when he named Columbus Day as the date of his annual double-header for war relief.

He helped provide New England fans with the biggest week of sports since Pearl Harbor, for the lineup and batting order now is as follows: Oct. 12, war relief double-header at the old Rock; Oct. 14, Notre Dame vs. Dartmouth at Fenway Park; and Oct. 15, Boston Yanks vs. Washington Redskins at Fenway Park. Which will do, and very nicely indeed, until peace returns and sports resume their normal, noisy way.

It is the present intention of Smith and his associates to make Columbus Day the greatest in the history of the little old track, and to smash the record that was set for war relief a year ago on Armistice Day, when more than a million dollars tumbled through the mutuel machines. It took a 14-race card to do it, but with better horses and better jockeys certain to be on hand this year and another 14-race, morning-and-afternoon card scheduled, Smith is certain that a new record will be established.

Cards at Tepee To Clinch Flag

By BILL GRIMES

Since the first of the month, the St. Louis Cardinals, who opened a three-day three-game series with the Braves this afternoon, have been badly battered by the Pirates and the Cubs.

The Cardinals' let down hasn't endangered their chance of winning the National League pennant. Today the champs by winning were set to grab the flag.

Until the last of August, the Cards breezed along without encountering any serious trouble. They were almost 20 games out in front of the second-place club. Then, the Pirates and Cubs start-ganging up on them.

Frankie Frisch's boys have won the last seven games they've played against the National League champions. The Cubs ousted the New York Giants from the first division by taking six of their last eight starts from the Mound City aggregation.

Teddy Wilks, who will probably be chosen the rookie of the year, Eldred Byerly and Mort Cooper are the only Cardinal pitchers to turn in wins this month. Wilks shut out the Reds and beat the Cubs, as did Byerly and Cooper.

During their final swing through the Eastern cities, the Cardinals will not meet up with the type of opposition they did in the West. The Giants, Braves, Phillies and Dodgers are all in the second division, rather soft touches.

Naturally, Southworth would like to get another crack at the Yankees who took the world's championship title from his Cards last fall. But, right now, it looks as though he would get an opportunity to pit his boys against Hal Newhouser, who beat the Yanks again yesterday, and Dizzy Trout, Rufus Gentry and Stubby Overmire.

Manager Bob Coleman was to send Charlie "Red" Barrett against the Cardinals this afternoon.

Grid Yanks Want N. E. Standouts

The streamer across the balcony of the Copley-Plaza ballroom read: "Welcome to Boston, Ted Collins."

The owner of the newly organized Boston Yanks didn't have to read the inscription to know he and his pro football team were more than welcome. The capacity audience of 760 members (both sexes) of the Yanks Marching and Chowder club proved that before toastmaster Tom McGowan or Mayor Tobin mounted the dias and eulogized the New Yorker whose Boston eleven opens with the Phila. Eagles at Fenway Park next Tuesday.

Though he might be able to spend little time here because of his radio work in New York, Collins insisted the Yanks are distinctly a Boston institution.

"They're your team, not mine," he said. And New England, rich in football talent, will be well represented. "There'll be no more Bill Osmanskis, Charlie O'Rourkes, Ray McLeans or Frank Maznickis starring for the Chicago Bears if I can help it," he vowed.
